The Problem We Set Out to Solve

Thousands of small businesses couldn't navigate the transition to digital commerce. Most still operated offline and had no idea where to start.

Fragmented education market

Brazil's e-commerce learning landscape was scattered—mostly expensive, single-platform courses that didn't meet small merchants' real needs.

A clear market gap

Only 40.87% of new Loja Integrada merchants understood e-commerce. Lack of digital knowledge was cited as the #1 barrier to going online.

61% of surveyed businesses didn't sell online · 62% of those who did had no dedicated website · 18% cited lack of digital knowledge as their top barrier

How the strategy was shaped

01

Discovery

- Benchmarked e-commerce learning portals
- Ran user interviews with small business owners
- Identified 'learning success' metrics: speed, simplicity, real results

02

Co-Design & Build

- Defined MVP scope and learning experience
- Structured content: free courses + paid experiments
- Collaborated with design, product & engineering teams

03

Launch & Iterate

- Community-driven GTM strategy at VTEX Day 2020
- Partner co-marketing with influencers & brands
- Analyzed engagement data to inform next iteration

"Education can be a growth engine when approached with a product mindset."

Community-First Launch Strategy

Instead of a traditional ad campaign, we built community momentum:

Co-Marketing

Partnered with Jivochat, Preço Certo, AWS, Facebook & Loja Integrada. Co-branded content that reached existing merchant communities organically.

Content Marketing

Webinars, podcasts, and influencer-led courses. Tapped educators and market leaders to produce practical ecommerce content.

Digital Strategy

Leveraged VTEX Day 2020 — Latin America's largest e-commerce event — as the launch moment. SEO, landing pages, and partner email lists for organic reach.

Benchmark: Most EAD institutions have 1,099–4,999 students. We reached 1,483 enrolled in 6 months — organically.

How did we connected business goals with customer needs?

Defined MVP scope and learning experience for the platform launch

Structured go-to-market strategy and monetization hypotheses (free vs paid)

Aligned stakeholders across content, marketing, product & engineering

Analyzed engagement data to inform next product iterations

Benchmarked competitors: NuvemShop Uni, E-commerce na Prática, Tray School

Competitive Edge

Platform agnostic (any merchant)

Competitors: platform-locked

Free + paid hybrid model

Competitors: all-paid or all-free

Community + co-marketing GTM

Competitors: ad-dependent

Data-driven iteration

Competitors: static content

Vision: #1 digital education hub for e-commerce in Brazil

Key Takeaways & Skills Demonstrated

Education as growth engine

Free content drove organic acquisition that would have cost thousands in paid ads. Building community trust = long-term retention.

Product mindset over feature delivery

Framing the school as a product—with discovery, MVP, and iteration cycles—led to data-informed decisions at every step.

Community-first GTM compounds

Partnering with influencers and brands created network effects. Each webinar or podcast multiplied our reach without added spend.
